Dear Parent/ Carer

Key Stage 3 Knowledge and Skills Maps

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to share subject information to families of Key Stage 3 students.

We have spent the last year developing a source of subject specific information with the aim of helping parents and families support their children in their learning. These are now available on the school website.

The knowledge and skills maps outline the areas studied in each subject to date. They also include when and how each subject assesses as well as including links to information which can help your child develop their knowledge. A link to the knowledge and skills maps can be found at the foot of this letter.

This year we will be reporting at three separate times. There will be two snapshot reports: at the start of December and in June, with a full report including specific targets in February.

Our teachers have been evaluating individual student's understanding of the curriculum using various techniques over the last seven weeks. Many subjects will be completing formal and informal assessments over the coming weeks in preparation for the reports, so now would be an excellent time to help your child review their learning to date.

I hope you find the extra information useful to support your child's learning.

Yours sincerely

William Wood
Assistant Headteacher
